Don Hnatyshin

Senior Vice President &
Chief Supply Chain Officer

BIOGRAPHY

As leader of Molex's Global Supply Chain, Don Hnatyshin is responsible for the company's End-to-End Supply Chain capabilities, operating model, and organization that includes Procurement, Logistics, Network Optimization, and Global Sales Operations Planning (GSOP&E).

Since joining Molex in 2018, Don has led Molex's Global Supply Chain transformation. With a focus on data, intelligence, analytics, and actionable insights, Don and his team are upgrading Molex's systems, tools, and resources to enhance the employee and customer experience. Using a customer-first mindset, Don's team is building a more digital, intelligent supply chain to accelerate product development and innovation, allowing Molex to be more responsive and flexible in responding to customer needs. This transformation is supported by the One Molex Operating System currently being deployed across the company.

Don has nearly 35 years of experience in Supply Chain and Procurement, including executive supply chain roles with industry leaders Jabil, Future Electronics, Alcatel, and Newbridge Networks across the OEM, EMS, distribution, and supplier ecosystem.

Don has served on several advisory boards, supporting many top OEMs and disruptive start-ups.

Don earned a Bachelor of Commerce in Marketing degree from John Abbott College. Don grew up in Montreal and currently resides in Ottawa, Canada.
